ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The publication of this guide would not have been possible without the assistance of Evelyn Cherpak, who spent many hours of her time in helping to locate the listed documents.

INTRODUCTION

The Naval War College's Naval Historical Collection contains the College archives, manuscript collections, and oral histories that document the institution, the Navy in Narragansett Bay, and the history of naval warfare. Materials treating Japan and China are found in all of the above categories for both the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

This guide is divided into four sections: Record Group 8: Intelligence and Technological Archives for Japan, Record Group 8: Intelligence and Technological Archives for China, Record Group 15: NWC Lectures on Asia, and Oral Histories. The holdings are identified by title, author, date, and exact location within the archival holdings. Those desiring further information may contact the curator.

The guide will be useful to naval historians, East Asian historians, and diplomatic historians who are interested in the role that the Navy played in East Asia during the last one hundred and fifty years, the service's response to our perceived security interests there, and U.S. foreign policy as a whole in Asia. While the vast majority of the materials relate to naval assessments of the regional navies in East Asia, these holdings also include personal descriptions of events throughout the region. The publication of this guide will acquaint scholars with documentation that heretofore has not been widely known; hopefully, it will stimulate research in this area and ensure preservation of these unique sources.

The Naval Historical Collection is located in Mahan Hall at the Naval War College, Newport, RI 02841-1207. Department hours are Monday-Friday, 0800-1630. The telephone number is 401-841-2435, fax, 401-841-7790, and e-mail, Evelyn.Cherpak@usnwc.edu.
